A year of COVID philanthropy: What it tells us going forward

The COVID-19 pandemic created an unprecedented need for funding — and grantmakers and donors stepped up. In 2020, corporations, foundations, public charities and high-net-worth individuals awarded more than $20 billion to address the social, health and economic effects of COVID-19 globally. That's just one of the findings in a new report covered in this article. A sidebar spotlights the popularity of recurring giving programs during the crisis.

Size counts — Your midsize or large organization might benefit from a CFO

A nonprofit leader might think, at times, that having a financial expert run that side of the operation could be a plus. This might be true, but hiring a CFO is a weighty decision that can have a large impact on the organization. This article examines CFO duties, considers the organization's size, discusses candidate review and offers the alternative of outsourcing.
